

Microsoft Access – Decimal Places

Decimal Places

This property only applies to number fields. You can define the number of decimal places that are displayed on the number. If the field is used in calculations, the complete number is used, not how it is displayed. The default value is Auto (where it depends on the number) the range of values is 0-15.