

Microsoft Access – Default Value

Default Value

The default value is the value that is entered automatically when the record is created. You do not have a default value in the primary field (as you do not want duplicates). The default value can be over typed.

You might want to set the current date as the default value on orders or the 1 on the quantities ordered.